JAMES H. STEARNS.

President of Pine Grove Springs Hotes Company Died Saturday-Was Prominent Business Man in Brooklyn.

James II. Stearns, 68, a prominent manufacturer of rubber goods in Brooklyn, a native of this town and president of the Pine Grove Springs Hotel company, died in his summer home at Spofford lake Saturday afternoon as the result of a cancerous growth in the head. He had not felt well since early last winter and before coming to his summer home the past season he underwent an operation. Later he came to the Brattleboro Memorial hospital and after returning to the lake he went back to Brooklyn and underwent another operation, remaining there three weeks. He tion, remaining there three weeks. He came to his summer home the last time just five weeks previous to his death.

Mr. Stearns was born in West Brattleboro, on the Williams place now occupied by W. L. Sylvester, March 22, 1843, and was one of 10 children of Emory and and was one of 10 children of Emory and pied by W. I., Sylvester, March 22, 1843, and was one of 10 children of Emory and Olive (Mixer) Stearns. He remained on the farm until after he was 21 years old and then he and his brother, J. Foster Stearns, went to New York, the latter returning after a few days' visit. James H. Stearns began working for his cousin, Frank Holton, in the rubber goods business and later bought an interest in the business, the firm becoming Parker, Stearns & Sutton, by whom it was conducted many years. Afterwards the firm became Parker, Stearns and Company, of which Mr. Stearns was treasurer at the became Parker, Stearns and Company, of which Mr. Stearns was treasurer at the time of his death. Mr. Sutton died at Spofford lake about three years ago. About two years ago the firm built an extensive fatcory in Brooklyn and moved the business there from New York city. Mr. Stearns was connected with the business as an owner about 30 years and business as an owner about 30 years and accumulated much property.

Some 25 years ago Mr. Stearns bought a small summer hotel at Spofford lake known as Armstrong's, which he tore down, building in its place a commodious summer hotel, which he later enlarged materially. It is now called the Pine Grove Springs hotel and is a widely-known summer resort, being filled each season with guests from the cities. It is season with guests from the cities. It is now owned by a stock company, of which Mr. Stearns was president. He gave up the active personal management after the company was organized. Mr. Stearns was also the owner of a fine farm in Spofford.

On the occasion of Mr, Stearns's first visit to the lake he camped in a tent a few weeks. He built a summer home on the spot and subsequently tore it down and built another, which is finely appointed in every detail.
His wife, whose maiden name was Annie Harper, of New York, survives. He also leaves a son, E. Ward Stearns, who has been associated with him in business, and a daughter, Miss Edna Stearns who lives at home, 385 St. Marks avenue, Brooklyn, one brother and four sisters. The brother is J. Foster Stearns of Pearl street, Brattleboro, and the sisters

Mr. Steams was a man of ambition and enterprise, whose life was characterized by good judgment and business integrity, and he was held in high regard wherever known. He was a member of the Lefferts council, Royal Arcanum, a veteran of the 23d regiment National Guard of New York, a member of the Union League club of Brooklyn and of the Empire State society, Sons of the American Revolution.

Funeral services were held in his summer home Tuesday at 3.39 o'colck and the burial took place in the Spofford village cemetery a short distance from the lake.

Kldnapped Child Murdered.

The body of Annie Lomberger, 7, who was kidnapped after going to bed in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Lomberger of Madison, Wis., was found Saturday in Lake Monona, a mile from her home. Marks on her neck indicated that she might have been strangled. The child was taken from her bed.

Col. Astor Married at Last.

Col. John Jacob Astor of New York, one of America's foremost masters of capital and estimated to have a fortune of more than $150,000,000 and Miss Madeline T. Force, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Force of New York, were married in Newport, R. I., Saturday, Several days had been spent in what at times seemed a fruitless quest for a clergyman to marry Miss Force and Mr. Astor, who had been divorced by his first wife, formerly Miss Ava Willing of Philadelphia. Rev. Dr. Joseph Lambert pastor of the Elmwood Temple Congresapastor of the Elmwood Temple Congrega-tional church, Providence, was eventu-ally engaged to perform the ceremony, and he officiated. The New York courts had forbidden Col. Astor to marry again.

Nearly 400 people, largely railroad men, moved by the high prices of groceries and provisions, have organized a cooperative store association in Greenfield Mass., with a capital of $25,000 and elect-ed D. A. Starkweather, the Fitchburg division station agent in East Deerfield, president, T. F. Perkinson of the same president, T. F. Perkinson of the same place, secretary. The association has taken an option on a Main street store, expecting to be open for business by Oct. 1.

Officers Gathered Liquor and Empties from Freight Car Saturday Night-One Respondent Pleaded Guilty.

Respondent Pleaded Guilty.

State's Attorney Frank E. Barber, assisted by Sheriff G. C. Wright of Westminster and Deputy Sheriffs H. E. Harris and C. E. Mann of Brattleboro and F. L. Wellman of Guilford, made a succussful raid on a freight car occupied by Italians Saturday evening and seized a quanity of liquor and empty bottles and lugs. The car was in the freight yard and since work was begun on the ledge opposite the station several months ago the Italians have been eating in it and one of the men has had charge of despensing the liquor. Lately, however, the state charges, liquor has been sold to lownspeople not employed on the ledge, and the raid was the result.

Taking his assistants with him the state's attorney had the car surrounded about 9.30 o'clock. After watching proceedings a few minutes to make sure that conditions would warrant the raid, the party rushed into the car. Several Italians were present and as the officers entered the door one of them reached for a revolver that was lying on a bench, but before he could do any damage Sheriff Wright wrested the weapon from him and laid him on the thoor. The others quickly quieted down and a scarch was made. A 50-gallon wine cask, half full of Italian sour wine, 50 bottles of beer and ale, an empty whisky jug and several empty bottles were carried away. Two men, Peter Torchi and Halph Visciarelio, charged with selling liquor, were taken to the lockup. The liquor was placed in charge of Deputy Sheriff C. E. Mann.

Vermont's Anniversary Year.

[Springfield Union.] In connection with the fact that numerous Bay state towns observe their 150th anniversary this year, it is recalled that in Vermont, even more than in Massachusetts, 1761 was a great year for pioneering and town-planting. A Rut-land correspondent of the New York Sun land correspondent of the New York Suncalls attention to 53 towns in the Green mountain state that are celebrating this month the completion of a century and a half of life. Quite a number of these places, Springfield included, bear names that had previously been placed upon the map of Massachusetts. This state, as well as New Hampshire, Connecticut and New York, contributed liberally from its citizenship to plant towns in the Vermont wilderness. It is asserted that Salisbury, Conn., furnished more settlers for Vermont that year than any other one place, and that Rutland, Addison and Chittenden countles were largely founded by immigrants from the Litchfield hills, one of the pioneers from that region being Ethan Allen. At the same time coloniers from the castern end of Dutchess county, N. Y., flocked into Ver-mont and established vettlements in Manchester, Dorset, Arlington and Dan-by.

Manchester, Dorset, Arlington and Dan-by.

The reason why immigration to Ver-mont took such a start in 1761 was that the Seven Years' war between England and France, with its attendant Indian outbreaks, came to an end that year, and it was thought a state of peace was in prospect. But the same year marked the beginning of a 13-year warfare in Vermont over land grants by New Hampshire and New York. It was due to this struggle that Vermont did not be-come one of the 13 original states, but maintained a separate government for eight years after the close of the Reveight years after the close of the Rev olution. It is remarked upon as singular that the picturesque mountain warfare attending the struggle between New Hampshire and Vermont has not received attention from the makers of this year's pageants in Bennington, Hartford, Thetford and other places year's pageants in Benningto Thetford and other places,

The jury case against Henry Clay Beattle, jr., indicted for the murder of his wife, returned a verdict of guilty in the first degree at Chesterfield Court-house, Va., Friday night. They considered the case 58 minutes and the first ballot was unanimous. Beattle was sentenced to be electrocuted Nov. 24, but a stay of execution was granted to allow counsel to apply for a writ of error. Beattle has led a life of dissipation. He shot his wife while riding with her in an automobile.

A strange case is reported from Kissi-nec, Florida, where Sadie L. Marchant, Shaker, who was dying from tuberculosis, was chloroformed by two other members of the Shaker colony, Elizabeth Scars and Egbert L. Gillette, in order that she might die speedily and pain-lessly. Miss Sears and Gillette are under arrest charged with murder, but they are held in such high respect in the community that it is declared that no jury will convince them. Gillette says: "Before God I think I did right. My conscience is perfectly clear."
